

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable. I don't believe it now, for after taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nerve and Liver Pills I am entirely cured, and feel better than I have for five years, and it is all due to these remedies. I want you to know that your medicines cured me. It relieved me from the first dose, and I kept right on till the pain in my chest was gone, and I kept on feeling better even after I quit taking it." GET WHAT YOU WANT.

The "Just as Good Kind" Never Pays.

If there is one thing more than another that should aggravate a self-respecting person, it is to be told that the article they ask for at their druggist's is not to be had, but that they can have something "just as good or better." The principal reason for such attempts at substitution is either the desire of the storekeeper to sell something on which he can make more money, or he hasn't the goods asked for, and wants to make a sale of something in its place.

Every reader of this paper should bear in mind when asking for Vinol, the modern cod liver oil preparation, that it is for sale in Mt. Sterling at our store, only, and that it can always be had when asked for.

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cod's livers, combining with peptonate of iron all the medicinal, healing and body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for Chronic Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled.

No one wants an old-fashioned cod liver oil preparation or emulsion after once tasting delicious Vinol. Try it. If it fails to benefit you will return your money. W. S. Lloyd, druggist, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

THE CURE FOR WORRY.

A Suggestion That He or She of Wrinkled Brow Should Consider.

Can worry be avoided or overcome? Is the disease curable without divine interposition? Undoubtedly, if the theory of thought-transference be accepted as indeed an established scientific fact, because surely an image tending upward can be communicated as freely—if not, in fact, with greater readiness, because of the larger receptivity for that which is pleasing—as an image tending downward. Thus, clearly, there may be brought into action for success those very forces which worry excites for ruin—forces which may or may not be irresistible, but certainly are, as the wise doctor observes, the most potent of earthly life, and, consequently, all that we poor humans can summon to our aid, unless we adopt the effeminate practice of those silly persons who constantly annoy the Almighty by beseeching him to tide them over their petty difficulties. Not that their troubles seem slight to them; far from it; invariably they are more serious than any others' can possibly be; but the mere certainty that, if God should stamp them out personally, instead of leaving such work, as he does and ought, to nature, other trials of no less consequence would promptly arise, shows clearly enough that, in reality, all individual tribulation is trifling.

Occasional reflection upon this great truth will do much to drive away the bad fairy and open the way out of dependency; but better yet is constant realization that one can do for either himself or others only that which lies within him to perform, and, having satisfied himself on that score, he possesses an inalienable right to disregard all possible consequences, and need give them no more consideration than a sagacious person accords idle speculation as to whether, when he awakes, he will find himself in heaven or in hell. Supplement knowledge of the recognized folly of regret with appreciation of the fact that worry is never over actual, but always over imaginary, ills, and is therefore as unnecessary as it is unwise and insufficient, and a long step will be taken towards the definite elimination of the chief bane of mankind.—George Harvey, in the North American Review.

Copy of Rare Bible.

In Wolfenbuetel, Hesse, Germany, is an old bible which is greatly treasured. In that passage in Genesis where God told Eve that Adam shall be her master and shall rule over her, the German translation is "Und er soll dich herr sein." "Herr," which means master, does not occur in this bible, but instead there appears the word "narr," which means fool. The error was caused by a quarrel between the printer and his wife in the year 1580. The wife was vengeful and in the silent watches of the night she entered the room where her husband had been setting type and maliciously changed "herr" into "narr." The printer was arrested after the book had been printed and the mistake discovered; but his apprentice testified that he saw the wife steal into the composing room and alter the word. The woman was imprisoned for blasphemy and died in prison. Orders were given that all the copies of the edition should be destroyed. This was done, with the exception of the one copy in the Wolfenbuetel library.

"The Confederate Colonel."

No class of men in the world have better manners than the southern gentleman. The type of this class is a dignified man, who insists upon being treated with respect, but who always concedes to others that which he demands from them. He is deferential in his manner and assumes that the customs and views of others are entitled to respect. In intercourse with a Spaniard the typical "confederate colonel" would never by word or gesture intimate that he considered himself in any respect the superior of the gentleman with whom he might be talking or that his business methods were more modern. In other words, the southern "colonel" has charming manners, and what was written by "Native of New England" was to say in effect that good manners are a business asset worth using.—Baltimore Sun.

The Peaceful Suburbs.

"Sort of endless chain war with your neighbor, eh?" said the visitor from the city. "How is that?" "Well," replied the suburbanite, "his chickens flew over the hedge and ate all my garden seed. I got even by getting a big tomato, and the cat ate the chickens."

"Ah, an 'eye for an eye,' eh?" "Yes; but it wasn't long before he got a bulldog and the bulldog finished the tomato."

"Great Scott! I suppose that ended the feud?"

"Not at all. I borrowed a catamount from a wandering circus and that killed the bulldog. Now, if he don't get an elephant to finish the catamount before I can return it to the show I guess I'll come out winner."

Sympathetic Hearts.

"It's dreadful the way the cost of living has gone up. The price of diamonds has increased so, my husband found where he went to get me that necklace he had promised me, that he can't afford it at all this year."

"Yes, it is certainly hard. I wonder how poor people manage to live."

Keep Your Bowels Open

It is a noticeable fact, and one which any doctor will verify that people who suffer most often from disease are the ones who have the most difficulty in keeping their bowels open. Regular bowel action is half the battle of health. People who have tendency to constipation must of necessity use something to help nature along. This should not be a violent aid like salts or purgative waters, cathartic pills or powders, but a syrup liquid that will oil the intestines and membranes that it comes in contact with. Children, women and weak people generally should never be given a strong physic, as it weakens the system. And it is fun for the strongest person because the relief is simply for that day, and then the reaction sets in and you are worse off than before. That is needed is a permanent, gentle, laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. People have been taking it for sixteen years and it is being better liked by more people every day. The reason is that it fills a want. It is unlike anything else. Results are so sure in constipation, dyspepsia, indigestion, liver trouble, biliousness, flatulency, sour stomach, weak stomach, bloated stomach and such ills that a cure of any of these ailments is absolutely guaranteed. A bottle costs but 50 cents or $1 and is worth a hundred times that to any sufferer. Wise mothers keep it constantly in the house for emergencies, because it is needed at some time or other by every member of the family. Dr. Lucella Underhill, the medical superintendent of the Working Women's Home of Chicago has kept her charges in perfect health by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin whenever a stomach complaint was brought to her attention. No other laxative is used in the Home. Buy a bottle yourself today and watch the prompt and permanent results.

Gold Coming From Europe.

The arrival of the first treasure ship laden with gold for the relief of the present stringency was on November 5th. The Kronprinzess Cecilie unloaded $7,100,000 in the yellow metal, which will go to strengthen New York bank reserves. The Cunard liner Lusitania followed closely in her wake with $10,000,000, and $14,000,000 more will follow during this week.

The additional withdrawals of $3,750,000 from the Bank of England for the United States and $25,000 for Canada brings up the total gold engagements on the present movement to about $36,600,000.

HAVE STRANGE GIFT

QUEER POWER EXERCISED BY "HORSE WHISPERERS."

Authentic Cases on Record Where the Most Unruly Beasts Have Been Made Tractable by a Few Words.

The horse whisperers might be an unknown quantity in England and Ireland to-day, but there are not a few men who exercise a wonderful control with their voices over horses which, when the dominating influence is absent are apt to literally kick over the traces, says a writer in the London Stock Journal. In the thoroughbred stables of England and Ireland to-day there are not a few stablemen and jockeys who succeed in holding in check the vice in horses which in demonstrative manner show that they cannot tolerate the presence of the groom or attendant.

The horse whisperer of to-day avoids all gesture, and trusts entirely to a combination of sounds or words. There is no bullying done, and the whisperer can face a mad horse with his hands behind his back and apparently at the mercy of the beast that has to come under the charm. The means of keeping unruly horses quiet in stations during the South African war was that employed by the yeomen, who sat in a ring of head-to-head horses singing as loudly as possible and riveting the ears and attention of the otherwise sprawling and hungry animals.

One of the first whisperers to acquire the power was Con Sullivan, who migrated in his youth from Kilmallock, where he could trace his genealogy through a long line of snafers and become almost exclusively employed by Lord Doneraile.

So unaccountable and so magical was the power Sullivan instantly acquired over the most savage brute that his parish priest, who had excellent grounds for not believing him a saint, denounced him as a sorcerer. The whisper of this man made an indelible impression upon any horse, bringing the pull to a degree of docility unattainable in the ordinary course of discipline.

The race horse King Pepin, a famous racer, vicious, and reputed to have killed two grooms at the Curragh, once came under his charge. He was wanted to win a race at Malrow, but when saddling time came it found him in one of his unmanageable moods. He reared, plunged and flung out fore and aft until he completely cowed groom and jockey. It was at this crisis that some one recommended that he should be "whispered." As it was the only chance left of taming him in time for the start, his owner gladly availed himself of it, though warned that horses were sometimes thrown into a state of stupor by the process.

Sullivan was soon found, and he was delighted with the opportunity of "whispering" before so much "quell" from all parts. Show us the wild beast, he said, "and we'll soon tame him manners."

When he got within the circle—and a wide one it was—in which King Pepin was playing his antics, he walked up to him, approaching the horse from behind. He mumbled some words as he walked, which, though not quite audible, were as unintelligible as a sermon in the unknown tongue, but they had a most magical effect on the horse, for he stood stock still. Sullivan then patted him on the neck, while he whispered a word or two in his ear, whereupon King Pepin went on his knees and incontinently lay down.

The whisperer then stretched himself on him at full length, took out a pouch containing a pipe and tobacco, lit and smoked, and blew a cloud, as he lounged on the stomach of this high mettled colt with as much composure as if he were seated on a bench in his favorite parlor. After two or three puffs he got up, beckoned the nag to his legs, saddled him and walked off to the starting post, the horse following and fawning upon him like a dog. He won the race in a canter.

Your Second Best.

It is sad that so many of us are content with our second best. We are always going to do better. We have vague ideas as to the great things we will do, but that is as far as we get.

Before you go to bed tonight think over your day. If you had it to live over again would you spend it just as you have done?

Most of us would not. Well, we still have tomorrow.

No matter how well you do anything, try to do it better. Don't be satisfied with anything but the very best that you are capable of.

Remember that this is your chance. Don't lose your golden opportunity.

Brave Leader of Arabs.

Most romantic of all the figures brought into the limelight by the troubles in Morocco is the "red kaid," a native leader who has ridden at the head of his men in many a gallant charge against the French. A correspondent says of him: "His native name is Kaid el Hemerr, Hemerr meaning red. He belongs to the M'Dacara tribe, near Casablanca. He derives his name from the fact that he always dresses in red. The kaid is paralyzed in both hands and cannot shoot, but he is well known for his gallantry in leading and urging his men. He is said to possess a talisman rendering him bullet proof."

ELEPHANTS ON RAID

VICIOUS BEASTS TAKE HUMAN LIFE IN RHODESIA.

Head of Wesleyan Mission Sends Particulars and Protests Against Protection Accorded the Animals in South Africa.

Rev. Mr. Grantham, in charge of the Wesleyan mission at Lomagundi, sends particulars of a raid made by a herd of elephants, which resulted in the loss of life.

He says: "I shall be glad if you will make known through the medium of your paper the following incident and my comments on it in the hope that public sentiment may be aroused against a condition of things in which many suffer for the sake of a fad of a few, who share none of the misery that their hobby inflicts upon others. In May last the natives on the farm suffered serious damage from the incursions of a troop of elephants that visited us seven nights in succession. In this respect we are not the only sufferers, for I am constantly hearing of the same kind of thing throughout the neighborhood. We have no law ful means of protecting our crops, and application for damages are ignored.

On Friday morning two old natives and a picanini, who had been sleeping in a skern erected in the lands, awoke to find that ten grown elephants and three calves were within a few yards of where they lay. The natives fled in terror, pursued by one of the beasts, which was apparently enraged at the sight of human beings in such close proximity to the calves. The picanini was just on the point of being trampled, but saved himself by rushing on hands and knees through the branches of a fallen tree. The elephant tossed these aside and continued in pursuit of the old men. One escaped, but the other was overtaken in about 100 yards, and the vicious beast transfixed him through the back, the protruding tusk plowing deeply into the soil.

"The furious animal then proceeded to rip its victim to pieces, splitting one leg from buttock to calf and an arm from shoulder to wrist. He just lived long enough to urge his friend to fly to the kraal, or no one would be left to tell the tale.

"We are told that in strict self-defense they may be fired upon. Are we then to wait until one of the brutes is in the act of charging upon us ere we pull a hasty trigger, which is more likely than not to be our last? And what is the use of firing at one angry elephant when several others are standing by ready to take up the cause of their companion if it does fail?

"It is popularly supposed that elephants will not attack a human being unless molested by him, but they will invariably do so if the herd contains any calves. A price is set upon the head of lions—beasts that rarely initiate an attack upon human beings, and whose depredations are generally confined to cattle kraals and spans of donkeys. Why, then, should elephants, which in this district are a much greater scourge than lions, be protected, and the killing of one be a criminal offense?"—Rhodesia Herald.

Can Such Things Be?

A new custom is being introduced this summer at some of the summer hotel dances. It seems to trace its origin back to practices common at the old country barn dances. A young man attending a dance at a nearby resort was surprised when his fair partner at the close of a dance said: "Come over to this end of the veranda. I hid my bottle on the window sill."

"Your what?" gasped the young man.

"My bottle. Why, where have you been? We girls are all taking cocktail bottles to the dances this summer. She produced a good-sized bottle from the window ledge as she spoke and invited her companion to partake in the old-fashioned way without the interposition of a glass. Near by another young woman was passing her bottle around among a little group of friends.—N. Y. Tribune.

Love Me, Love My Dog.

A curious incident, involving a young and good looking French woman and her dog, occurred recently on a Continental railway. For several hours the young woman bestowed more attention and tender care upon the pretty little creature than the majority of women do upon their first born, and at every station it was taken out for exercise, and between stations it was fed with dainty nibbles taken from its special basket, which also contained extra wraps, fresh shoes and a gay collar with a huge bow. What attracted most attention was, however, the purchasing of a bottle of mineral water, the taking out of a tiny folding traveling cup, into which some of the water was poured and the lapping of it up by the pet.—Dundee Advertiser.

Her Mistake.

"She gave a supper just for the sake of inviting her friends and not inviting her enemies." "Judging from the comments I have heard on the supper she would have come nearer making a killing if she had invited her friends and left off her enemies."
